Dr. Valerie L. Gerlach is Principal Medical Writer at Celgene, Inc., working remotely in Milwaukee, WI. Previously, she held similar positions at Takeda Pharmaceuticals, Schering Plough, and CuraGen. Val enjoys seeing information on all of the different types of drugs that the company is developing, and has gained an appreciation for the hard work that goes into getting a new medicine approved. Prior to becoming a medical writer, Val was an NIH postdoctoral fellow with Errol Friedberg at Univ. of Texas Southwest Medical Center and a Senior Research Scientist at CuraGen Corporation.